

About the project

Anveshan is introducing Jainism from a fresh, contemporary perspective to a broad, global audience through film and other media.

We have been researching the subject and have created a repository of perspectives on the matter. By highlighting the Jain ideal and its influence, we hope to draw attention to the consequences of ideas and how an alternative way of thought may meaningfully create a better world for all of us.

The project is being supported by Pradeep Ghisulal Rathod. From the very beginning, Pradeep Rathod has single-handedly ensured that the resources needed for the research phase are met. Now he is guiding us as we arrange secondary funding for the production of a documentary film on Jainism, which is the main outcome of this project.
